BLUEY AND MY OTHER FRIENDS

(By Nayeli Jaiswal, P5)

I have a bird friend named Bluey. She is blue and black in colour. She is very cute, sweet and joyful. Let me tell you how I met this cute little bird. My mom and dad have built a temple in our courtyard. Once, I was playing in front of the temple and I saw a little injured bird limping inside the temple in one corner. I looked at her and saw that she had hurt her wings. I called my mom and dad to the spot. They both came with me to the temple and felt very pity for the little bird. Me and my parents helped the injured bird and that made me feel very happy and as I love animals more and more animals, birds and rodents came like squirrels and colourful butterflies. Now it is my duty to help everyone.

Celebrate 'India' (By Jasmine, P4)

Independence Day is celebrated on the 15th of August every year. On this day in 1947, India became free from the British rule. This day reminds us our great struggle of freedom and many sacrifices that the Indians, especially our freedom fighters have made to see our motherland free!

The Prime Minister of India unfurls the Indian flag at Red Fort. We all dress up in tri-color clothes and watch the Rajpath parade on television. We wait the whole year for the little brown packets of sweets! We all celebrate this day with great joy and enthusiasm.
