NET NEUTRALITY

~ Ishanvi Roy

Connecting to the world for us is as easy as buying a WiFi package, right? Wrong. Most people don't realise that the coined term, 'Net Neutrality' is essential to saving our wallets from drying out. Accessibility to all sites without prior payment is what defines this coined term. Our lives would be in external damnation if there was a need to pay for each and every site we'd visit. In the pervious years, the US government threaten to take away this right from its citizens. Most people were left baffled as they took the freedom of surfing the net for granted. The Indian government was soon to follow the same practice what the government of both the countries did not anticipate was the majority of the public would fight back aggressively.

As 'generation Z', most of our leaning has stemmed through the medium of connectivity. This generation was born to fulfill the need for solutions to problems created by our predecessors. The Net has been the method through which we fight and take a stand. Sure, there have been many problems associated with existence of such wide range of connectivity lying in the hands of youngsters, but can one truly say that there wasn't been a befitting use of it?

Like all things controversial, availability of the internet has its own pros and cons. From the perspective of a generation Z member, the pros heavily outweigh its cons.

The influence of net has blocked about virtual movements for human rights started by teens in front of the screens. The much criticised social media sites have been the outlet through which many individuals have found their ground for career. The net is also a supplier of a wide array of books for various curricula which would have otherwise cost a fortune for a family where every penny is part of a large calculated future.

So, regardless of numerous unforgettable happenings taking away a right, so understated, yet precious is unforgivable. No individuals should ever shy away from taking a stand against it if any threat were to be posed again.

A PLETHORA OF MELODY

~ Arshiya Priya

Music is like bread and butter for us, MISars. The night of 5th October will remain imprinted in our hearts. The MIS family gathered in the school auditorium to witness a musical evening. To start off, our adorable tiny-tots showcased their talent with crowd swayed along with these little girls who emerged as showstoppers. Following this, Vrinda Agni fired the platform with her incredible sitar performance. Up next, Malaika and Shreha took over the stage and enthusiastically sang the famous song 'Little Me'. A thunderous round of applause fired the atmosphere, as the audience welcomed the rising stars, Michelle, Tenzin, Sanskriti and Parinita who mesmerised us with another song 'Rewrite the stars'. To continue, the Hindi choir put on a performance portray the diversity that is embedded in the culture of our school. Following this, Malaika and her girl group played a symphony that had us captivated. To end the dhow, the school band- EXOTHERMIC, rocked the stage with their performance of the songs- 'Million Dreams' and ' Summer of 69'. This raised the spirits in each one of us and the evening came to a close on a happy note.

MOM

~ Swara Patel

This word means the world to me. Mom is a word which no one can define to me.

I'm not a gift that life gives you, mom.

You are my life that's a gift for me.

I don't want anyone to have a mother like I have.

Because I want her to be mine always.

Life can give me any trouble it wants

But i'll always be happy.

Because I have you, Mom.

CAMPUS CLEANING

~ Samaira Dua

If cleanliness is next to godliness, then our school, MIS must be heaven. On the 2nd of October, Wednesday, 2019, on account of Gandhi Jayanti, the she-panthers of Mussoorie International School cleaned the place, they so lovingly call home. The campus surfaced even more pristine and majestic than it already was. The knowledge that cleaning would be an inter-house competition not only ignited the MISar's zeal but also kept the teachers to beautiful their campus even further.

The cleaning session took place for 2 hours, from 6:30 am to 8:30 am. The three houses Lakshmi, Santoshi and Gayatri, were divided into groups and each group was assigned a different area to clean. It was an arduous and back-breaking two hours, but the result was more than enough for everyone's satisfaction. Through all the houses performed remarkably well, Gayatri house was declared winner of the competition. However, noting could dampen the spirit of our She-panthers and they zestfully headed to the dinning hall for breakfast to fill their growling stomach.

JOURNEY THROUGH THE MYSTERIOUS GLOBE

- North Korea fishing boat flooded after accident with Japan patrol boat.
- Box Office : 'Joker' smashes October record with $93.5 million debut.
- Trump suspends entry of immigrants who cannot pay for healthcare.
- Modi to host China's Xi at summit with ties strained by Kashmir.
- Apple announced that it will soon shut down iTunes on Mac with its Fall 2019 update, replacing it instead with separate apps that will allow the company to better focus on each type of media.

It is a great honour to introduce all the She- Panthers to our new IB Coordinator, Mrs. Ponny Chacko. All the IB Students have pulled up their socks after the meeting held on the 7th October, 2019 i.e. Monday. The pressure made students forget about their Korean Drama and Latest Pop hits. The principles of the extended essay left the students' jaws touching the floor. Warnings given by Mrs. Chacko to haunt them at 3 AM, if the submissions weren't done made a few of us cry. This is surely guiding us to a bright future and we are sure to achieve great heights under her able guidance.

THE POTATO VERDICT

~ Potato Queen

From walking through the moss - free streets to cribbing over the mangoes coming near their trophy, the she-panthers, ma-panthers and pa-panthers have seen it all latterly. Moving on to October 24, would someone please capture the games captain’s sparkling strides? After all it’s her last year, the sky is usually bright-clear, then would Swarna still hold back her DSLR? Well, well the DHP would know better. A nation surviving on tourism recently faced a minor foot misbalance “kyunki josh main hosh khodiya janaab!” Noticing Picasso’s expressions around her Nadal makes it easy to guess the reason behind his brand-new look. The trash bags of the dorms where the 10s’ reside must be needed to be changed pretty often in a day “ma’am please garam paani de do, bhahut cold ho raha hai”

A sweet but psycho advice, stay tuned, don’t limit yourself to just mis gossips, otherwise you’ll not be able to deal with “a whole new world!”

Will come back next week with better variety of masaala. Please help yourself with the oil, surely you girls would prefer olive.

PREVIOUSLY ON CAMPUS

~ The Sleeping Beauty

Hello to all my darling daughters, sisters, bonders, or all SHE-PANTHERS!

With complete criticism about how the school should grant a budget for something as important as our mascot, I start this week's report of what's trending. From cleaning our beautiful campus, dirtying our own sleeves to the 'Ravan Dahan', we all had a splendid week. Promising seniors of our school have exempted the juniors from receiving privileges like they do, but is it helping them in any possible manner? The irony is, for these people itself, arranged the 'classy interviews'. Making them jump and perform like a zombie and getting to see our Head Girl's handstands was surely an unexpected delight.

I appreciate people who've handed not being a part of the BP and yet managing people in and out of school. I also appreciate and name Aahna Murarka as the best dancer and Swara Patel as the showstopper of the dandia night.

Anyway from last week if the 10's of Santoshi house did not agree, I would not mind mentioning about your junior friends.

Also, if it is an unsaid competition amongst 12's to distribute the best food, I am waiting for further birthdays.
